Housing rules

Student residences in France

The following items will help you better adapt to your new housing and make your stay a success. Here are some basic rules you should follow:

- INSURANCE - All students are required to have an insurance for the studio that is provided by the residence.
- PHONE - You do not have phone in the studio. We advise you to buy or rent a cell phone.
- INTERNET - You have access to Internet in your studio.
- ELECTRICITY - Electricity is very costly in France, so we ask you to turn your heat off when opening your window in winter and to switch your lights off when you leave a room in the apartment.
- WALLS - Please do not put anything on your bedroom walls to avoid any wholes or stains.
- TV - Most residences have a TV room and you can have access.
- YOUR ROOM - You will need to lock your door when you leave. As a general rule, keep your room tidy and clean.
- NOISE - Be discreet when you come home at night. Do not blast your stereo!
- LAUNDRY - Sheets and towels will be provided. All residences have a laundry.
- VISITS - You cannot invite your parents, family nor your friends to sleep over at your studio.
- FRIENDS - During the day, you need prior agreement of the residence to invite someone into your room.
- LOOSING & BREAKING - You are responsible for anything you break or lose (including the keys). Please be aware that loosing the keys could end up being very costly since it implies in most cases the whole door lock to be replaced.
- PRACTICAL ISSUES - Do not hesitate to address material and practical issues directly to the person responsible of the residence. Only in the event of difficulty will you need to appeal to Aquarius.
- SECURITY - If you are returning late at night, we urge you to take a taxi. You can share the cost of a taxi with another student living in the same area. Do not carry a lot of cash on you, and if at all possible, leave your passport at home and carry with you only the photocopies of your identity papers.
- CANCELLATION OF CONTRACT - The student is legally bound to stay at the residence for a period determined in advance, which cannot be broken, except in cases of unavoidable circumstances. A stay already begun has to be completed as stated in the contract.

Please do not hesitate to ask Aquarius for help and advice.

Have a GOOD STAY in France!
